Anyware Named a Palm Select Developer

TULSA, Okla., September 5, 2007 – Anyware Mobile Solutions today announced they have been named a Palm Select Developer, further validating Anyware as one of the top mobile solution companies in the country, and one of Palm's most valuable mobile solution partners.

The Select Developer Program is a new program for Palm's top developers responsible for driving significant business with Palm. This elite program is only offered to partners by invitation and is designed to help ensure the continued successful development and deployment of innovative software solutions for Palm devices.

As a requirement for consideration, partners must have successfully completed the "Designed for Palm Products" compatibility testing. Anyware's flagship product, ReForm[™] received the certification last fall by undergoing rigorous quality testing to ensure interoperability with Palm products.
